

$100 Billions
Required For Waging Of War

on Conflict

By IRVING PERLMETER
Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt laid before Congress today a $100,000,000,000 war budget to speed the day of victory, and to help raise this record sum he asked for $16,000,000,000 in additional taxes or compulsory savings.

Altogether, Mr. Roosevelt estimated government spending in the fiscal year beginning July at $109,000,000,000, and he said in a message to the lawmakers, "this budget represents the maximum program for waging war."

The new tax program he suggested included a $25,000 limit on the income of anyone after payment of taxes, regardless of the source of his income.

Tops All War Costs
The budget, which estimates spending for the 12 months beginning July 1, not only dwarfed anything in the history books, it represented more than the annual expenditures of all the other belligerents on both sides of the war, put together.

It was nearly three times what Germany is spending, four times England, and 14 times Japan. In the current fiscal year, America's war cost was estimated by Mr. Roosevelt at about $77,000,000,000. Add to that another $19,000,000,000 spent between Pearl Harbor and the beginning of the current year, and the American war bill between Dec. 7, 1941, and June 30, 1944, will be $196,000,000,000—just $1,000,000,000 short of all the money spent by the treasury from the day George Washington was inaugurated in 1789 until the Japs attacked a little more than a year ago.

Not "Fantastic"
"Some persons may believe that such a program is fantastic," commented the commander-in-chief. "If the nation's manpower and resources are fully harnessed, I am confident that the objective of this program can be reached, but it requires a complete recognition of the necessities of total war by all—management, labor, farmers, consumers, and public servants—regardless of party."

He did not translate his financial estimates into planes and tanks and ships—to do so, he said, would merely help the enemy. But he gave this breakdown of the general war program:

	1942-43	1943-44
Munitions (planes, ships, guns, etc.)	43	66
Payrolls, travel, etc.	15	21
Industry construction	6	2
Camp, other construction	8	5
Lend-lease food, miscellaneous	6	5
Totals	77	100

Emphasizing that his figures meant weapons, not coins, and that the Axis could not be swamped by money, the President cautioned:

All Must Help
"Victory cannot be bought with any amount of money, however large; victory is achieved by the blood of soldiers, the sweat of working men and women, and the sacrifice of all people."

To farmers he assigned the task of feeding the United Nations, for "food is a primary weapon of war," and he budgeted $837,000,000 for federal farm aids calculated, among other things, to divert agricultural acres from luxury foods to nutrition essentials.

Besides taxes and war bonds ahead for the civilian, the President said, "unnecessary costs and frills should be eliminated. Total war demands simplification of American life. . . . We fill out forms, carry coupons, answer questionnaires. . . . We regulate prices, wages, salaries and rent; we limit consumer credit; we allocate scarce materials; and we ration scarce consumer goods—all to the end of providing the materials of war and distributing the sacrifices generally."

Urges More Taxes
Mr. Roosevelt said both he and Budget Director Harold D. Smith preferred to lay down a more explicit tax program, but the necessity of consulting Congress limited them to the mere statement in the budget message:

"I believe that we should strive to collect not less than $16,000,000,000 of additional funds by taxation, savings, or both, during the fiscal year 1944."

This sum, he said, would be on top of the $33,081,245,000 net revenues expected by the Treasury from existing laws, and with these would provide enough pay for half of the anticipated expenditures.

In a press conference, however, the President said one of his personal objectives was a $25,000 limit

PWB CHAIRMAN WILL ADDRESS AREA FARMERS

James E. Walker, chairman of the Pennsylvania War board, will be the principal speaker at the Farm Mobilization Day meeting for this area to be held at Hanover Friday evening, it was announced today.

JAMES E. WALKER

o'clock, and is being sponsored by the Hanover Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary clubs and the Hanover Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Farm Mobilization Day has been proclaimed by President Roosevelt as a day when the country at large should recognize the past services of agriculture, and encourage farmers to plan for maximum production in 1943.

Conduct Open Forum
After War Board Chairman Walker's address, a board of experts will answer questions on farm problems asked by the farmers and other citizens attending. A concerted effort will be made to help the farmer work out the various problems confronting him, to clarify any regulations and to give him a clear understanding of what is expected of him in 1943—and what he may expect this year.

The national observance of Farm Mobilization Day has been set for Tuesday but in view of the fact that Mr. Walker and other prominent men expected to attend the York-Adams-Carroll rally will not be available until later in the week Friday was selected for the program for this section.

Although no announcement was available from local rationing authorities, C. Y. Brough, chairman of the Hanover rationing board, has ruled that travel to the mass meeting will be classed as essential driving because it is definitely a part of the war effort and the "food for freedom" program.

CHINESE KEEP IN HIGH SPIRIT DESPITE WAR

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Chungking, Jan. 9 (Delayed)—China's wartime capital is one of the highest priced cities of the world and as such reflects from the rest of the country a cost of living which is staggering.

Chungking presents some exceptions, of course, because it is an ancient provincial city which had metropolitan conditions suddenly thrust upon it. This old town, which clings precariously to the precipitous sides of the mountain that lords it over the junction of the Yangtze and Chialing rivers, never was intended as the first city of the land.

Scarcity of accommodations and lack of suitable transportation facilities have forced some prices up. Still, conditions here give a fair gauge of the country's difficulties.

Life Is not Easy

Life isn't easy in China these days, though it should be said that there is sufficient food, barring many districts in Honan province where there has been a drought.

Fortunately, wages of labor have increased enough so the working man and his family, generally speaking, aren't hungry. Many business men are keeping the wolf from the door. But the poor white-collar worker, as usual, is suffering heavily. Salaries haven't moved up with the cost of living.

Chungking doesn't escape because it is the capital. On the contrary, it is, so to speak, on the firing line. Because of the lack of materials, it is likely that the plaster in your house is falling off and holes in the roof may let in rain. Your plumbing, if you have plumbing, may not work.

Coal Is Scarce
The lack of transportation has created a scarcity in many things and coal, of which China has much, is one of these. Chungking government offices and public places like restaurants are forbidden to have fires, although the winter weather is raw and cold.

Gasoline is a precious as molten pearls and motor cars are few and far between. Good samaritanism is the rule, but for the most part you just climb up and down these steep hills on your own legs.

Little luxuries like cakes are shared with all who may be in the room. That is typical throughout Chungking.

With all this, you might think the Chinese might be downhearted and rather sorry for themselves—but not so. They are as a whole about the most extraordinarily cheerful folk I've encountered, and I've travelled in maybe 50 countries or more.

Are Unbeatable
They laugh a lot, and it's real. Adversity may dampen their spirits temporarily, but it can't long keep away laughter, for the Chinese even can extract humor from hard knocks.

Almost anything that comes to their mills is grist, and be it old or new, they appreciate it. For instance, they still get a smile out of the story about Marco Polo. This is in the general vicinity of the parts he visited so long ago, and the tale revolves about a remark he made.

It seems Marco became annoyed at reports that his prince back home said the traveller was talking too much, whereupon Marco flashed:

"I'm Marco Polo, and I say what I damn please!"

"I'm glad I came to China if for nothing else but to see these people laugh. Having experienced their irrepressible spirits, I have no fears whatever that the Japs can beat them. You can't defeat a people who have such a pronounced sense of humor as the Chinese."

Club Members Are Affected By Ban
Driving your automobile to a meeting of a service club, like the Rotary, Lions, Soroptimist or the like, is considered a pleasure, the Office of Price Administration has ruled, hence a violation of the "no pleasure" driving ban.

The ruling was flashed over the wires this afternoon in reply to a query from a Beaver Falls correspondent. The cur ruling, flashed at 12:43 o'clock this afternoon, said: "OPA says driving to Rotary meeting pleasure."

Mrs. Peters Buried Sunday Afternoon

Funeral services for Mrs. Blanche Peters, 71, who died Thursday evening from a heart attack in Bendersville, were held Sunday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Slaybaugh, Bendersville, with further services at the Bendersville Lutheran church, conducted by the Rev. Dr. H. D. Hoover. Interment in the Bendersville cemetery.

The pallbearers were P. S. Peters, W. W. Sheely, R. R. Starnes, H. M. Snyder, E. T. Harris, C. H. Weaver, Wilson Blocher and George Weaver.

HAROLD CLUCK ARRESTED AS DRAFT EVADER

Harold Emmanuel Cluck, 23, whose home is a trailer three miles from Littlestown along the Gettysburg highway, was taken into custody Saturday by Chief of Police H. S. Roberts, Littlestown, and turned over to a deputy U. S. marshal at the county jail here Sunday on a charge of failing to comply with Selective Service orders.

Cluck, who lists his occupation as "minister of Jehovah God," is identified by police as a member of the sect of "Jehovah's Witnesses." He was taken to Harrisburg Sunday by Deputy U. S. Marshal Capello.

Cluck, who has been reported to federal authorities by Draft Board No. 1 at New Oxford, as a delinquent bailed when he was ordered to report for service in a civilian public service camp for "conscientious objectors" on December 2 at Powellville, Maryland, police said.

Refuses To Work
Draft board officials said today that Cluck was classified as a conscientious objector and was placed in 4E. Not satisfied with that action, Cluck carried his case to the area board of appeals where he asked to be placed in 4D as a minister. The board of appeals sustained the local board's action and continued Cluck in 4E.

Early in December he was notified to report for duty at a civilian work camp. He appeared at the New Oxford draft board office and announced he would not report. His delinquency was reported and the federal action followed.

The New Oxford draft board office disclosed today that another "Jehovah's Witness" in their district, Mervin Melvin Alwine, Abbottstown, had been taken into custody by federal officers last month after he was listed as delinquent for refusing to report at a work camp.

Accident Victim Reported "Good"

The condition of Mrs. Bernard Stock, North Stratton street, who was injured in an auto accident Friday evening, was reported as "good" at the Warner hospital today.

Betty Robert Orrtanna, submitted to an operation this morning for the removal of her tonsils.

Edward W. Harmon, Biglerville, an employee of the Ford Motor company, was treated this afternoon for an injury to his left hand.

Those admitted as patients were Mrs. J. Fred Wright, West Middle street; Miss Byrl F. McPherson, Carlisle street, and Clifton Harbaugh, Emmitsburg. Discharged included Mrs. J. Albert Wood and infant son, Charles Harry, East Middle street; Mrs. Robert Lentz and infant daughter, Barbara Ann, Biglerville R. D., and Mrs. Alden Frantz, Littlestown R. 1.

It's Colossal

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—In case you don't have $109,000,000,000—the amount of President Roosevelt's new budget—here are a few ideas on how big that sum is:

Divided equally, it would be $819 for every man, woman and child in the country.

The Treasury will have to pay out an average of $3,516 every second, 24 days a day, Sunday and holiday included.

If paid out of current earnings, it would take 75 per cent of the national income (all wages, profits, dividends, etc.)

DESCRIBE MAIL SERVICE TO U.S. MEN IN PRISONS

Gettysburg post office officials have received an informative bulletin, released by the Office of War Information through the Postoffice department, concerning mail service that is available between American fighting men taken prisoners by Germany or Italy and interned American civilians and their friends in this country.

The announcement states that the prisoners and interned civilians receive regular American Red Cross standard food parcels and necessary clothing as soon as the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva is notified of their capture and camp location.

A total of 5,931 food parcels were reported dispatched to camps in Europe during November to U. S. prisoners of war and internees. Prisoners receive a package a week and internees one every two weeks.

Regular Deliveries
The announcement continues: "In addition to the standard Red Cross parcels, which have been carefully prepared by nutrition experts to counteract any vitamin deficiencies in the regular prison diet, a prisoner also may receive one supplementary parcel every 60 days from his family or friends as soon as they have been officially notified of his capture and whereabouts. Full directions for sending parcels are sent the next of kin at the time of notification. Information may be obtained from any post office on what may be included in these parcels to prisoners of war for which no individual export license is now required."

"The Red Cross food parcels contain evaporated milk, biscuit, cheese, cocoa, sardines, pork, beef, chocolate bars, sugar, coffee, powdered orange concentrate, prunes, cigarettes and smoking tobacco. The contents of each package weighs 8 1/2 pounds. The shipping weight is 11 pounds."

Sent to Geneva
"Large numbers of these standard food parcels have been shipped through the neutral port of Lisbon. They are carried from Lisbon on a vessel chartered by the International Red Cross committee, under a safe conduct guarantee from the belligerents, to Marseilles, or Genoa, and from there are sent by rail to Geneva."

"The International committee arranges for their transport to the camps, where they are handed out by the 'man of confidence,' the camp leader chosen by the men themselves. A system of triplicate receipts and constant checks by the International Red Cross assure that all parcels are received by those for whom they are intended."

Japs Cause Delay
"Twenty thousand Red Cross parcels were sent last June to the Far East on the neutral diplomatic exchange ship, the Gripsholm, for distribution by International Red Cross delegates to American prisoners in Japan, Occupied China and the Philippines. The Gripsholm also carried cigarettes, tobacco and medical supplies, clothing and other necessities, furnished by the Army and Navy. Much larger supplies have been loaded on the Gripsholm in anticipation of her second sailing for which final clearance with the Japanese is awaited."

"Ever since the entry of the United States into the war, negotiations have been carried on vigorously through Red Cross and diplomatic channels to establish a regular shipment of food parcels and other comforts to American prisoners in the Far East but delay in completing such arrangements for prisoners of war is not unusual."

"In addition to the distribution of material aid, all information about prisoners of war is cleared through the International Red Cross at Geneva."

CHEER FOR CUPID

Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 (AP)—The three-day waiting period for granting marriage licenses will be abolished if a suggestion of John M. Huston, Allegheny county register of wills, is accepted by the Pennsylvania Legislature. The law, Huston said, is now unnecessary because of the requirement that contracting parties submit to a blood test before obtaining a license.

W. B. Rutledge Is Named To Highest Court

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt sent to the Senate today the nominations of Wiley B. Rutledge, associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court, and of Prentiss M. Brown, former Michigan senator, to be price administrator.

The Chief Executive also nominated Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National committee, to be Minister to Australia, succeeding Nelson Johnson, who is retiring from the diplomatic service.

W. B. RUTLEDGE

Job for Lee

Josh Lee, former senator from Oklahoma, was nominated to membership on the Civil Aeronautics board.

The 48-year-old Rutledge, former dean of the law school at the University of Iowa, will take the place vacated on the Supreme Court bench when James P. Byrnes was appointed economic stabilization director.

Brown will replace Leon Henderson, who announced several weeks ago he was resigning because of a back ailment and poor eyesight. Henderson agreed to serve until his successor could take over.

Brown a former house member from Michigan before going to the Senate, was defeated for reelection in November, as was Lee.

Flynn, in addition to serving as Minister to Australia, will be the personal representative of the President, with the rank of ambassador in the southwest Pacific area.

$115 RECEIVED FOR BOY SCOUTS

Fourteen hundred persons jammed the Majestic theatre to overflowing Sunday evening for the presentation of "Keep 'Em Smiling," given by Pratt's Music Studios and a cast of over 100, for the benefit of the Gettysburg Boy Scouts. A collection of $115.75 was received.

The performance, which was well received included selections by the 85-piece guitar band, the Hawaiian Sharps, Hawaiian Hillbillies and Waikiki Maids; comic presentation by Clarence Williams; hula dance by Shirley Garrett, and a vocal solo, "Some Day, Old Pal, Come Back to Me," by Ross Sachs with accompaniment by Miss Mary Clare Myers. Mrs. Belle Bollinger, Baltimore street, wrote the words for the solo.

Dean W. E. Tilberg, Boy Scout executive, talked briefly, explaining the work of the scouts.

Harold Pratt directed the show and acted as master of ceremonies. He was assisted by Clarence Williams and Virginia Pratt.

The use of the Majestic theatre was made possible without charge through the courtesy of Sydney J. Poppy, manager. Paul Dougherty arranged the stage lighting and together with other theatre employees contributed their services free. The collection was gathered by members of Boy Scout troops 77, 78 and 80.

ALLIES CARRY FIGHT TO FOE ON ALL FRONTS

BY JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press War Editor

The Russians announced today the recapture of 13 more towns along the Rostov-Baku railway through the Caucasus as they closed in tighter around the German rail junction where the Nazis had been rolled back some 75 miles from Mzokod, gateway to the Gronzy oil fields.

The German defenses in the Caucasus apparently were crumbling fast, and although desperation stiffened the Nazi stand in the lower Don, 60 miles from Rostov, and on the central front west of Velikie Luiki, there was no sign that the Russian drive had bogged down.

With Germany's air power spread ever thinner by the broadening scope of allied aerial offensives, the Russians, once badly outnumbered in the air, reported a three-to-one ratio of victories last week—313 enemy planes destroyed against a loss of 93 Soviet aircraft.

American and British warplanes carried the fight to the enemy both in Europe and in North Africa.

One Man Show

Fighter-escorted American bombers battered railroad yards and oil storage tanks yesterday at the eastern Tunisian port of Gabes, and bombed a German military camp at Kebili, on the salt lake 65 miles inland from the port.

The one man show of the day was put on by Maj. Philip George Cochran, of Erie, Pa., who flew his P-40 Warhawk fighter over the Moslem city of Kairouan in the central Tunisian battleszone and dropped the only bomb he was carrying squarely on a German headquarters there. The headquarters, he reported, was destroyed.

B-26 Martin Marauders, escorted by P-38 Lockheed Lightnings, swept into Libya from the west for the first time Saturday night, smashing hangers at an airfield 10 miles west of Tripoli. That same night Allied planes from the east swept over the same coastal region, bombing the road from Tripoli to the Tunisian frontier. The port of Tunis and Axis air bases on Sicily were attacked yesterday.

Ssen in Flames
Big British bombers, perhaps 140 to 150 strong, set off fires visible 100 miles in a hard new raid Saturday night on Essen, home of the giant Krupp armament works. It was the fifth raid on the industrial Ruhr region in seven nights.

The Russian mid-day communiqué gave this account of the continued Soviet offensive:

In the Caucasus: "Troops of one formation successfully advanced and dislodged the enemy from 13 populated places . . . an especially fierce engagement developed near a certain river position . . . under enemy fire, Red Army men crossed the river and broke into the German positions."

On the lower Don: "Our troops repelled enemy counter-attack . . . and continued their and continued their offensive. One unit captured a populated place."

Northwest of Moscow: "On the central front our units . . . repelled an enemy counter-attack . . . in another sector the enemy, at the cost of heavy losses, succeeded in driving a wedge into our positions. By a subsequent counterblow, however, our troops forced the Germans back to their original positions."

Only Two Cases On January Trial List

The January trial list for the court of common pleas in Adams county has been printed in an abbreviated form and copies are being distributed in the office of Prothonotary Lee M. Hartman at the court house. Because there are only two cases for trial, the list and the names of the grand and petit jurors have been printed on a single folded sheet instead of in the usual booklet form. The suits to be tried include an assumption action in which H. M. Stierner is the plaintiff and Vernon Frazier, defendant, and the trespass suit by B. Rush and Nelson Mellett against Glenn and Katherine Tuckey.

BULLETINS

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—Essen, site of the great Krupp Armament works, lay smoking today under the effects of a devastating bombardment by the RAF, which unloaded a great weight of bombs—including two-ton "blockbusters"—on the city Saturday night in the fifth raid on the Ruhr in seven nights.

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Federal District Attorney's office has dismissed a kidnapping charge against John P. Gamaski of Reading, Pa. He was indicted in November on a charge that he forced Peggy Anne Kelly, a State Department employee, to accompany him to Bel Air, Maryland, and marry him.

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Jan. 11 (AP)—Allied bombers have struck again at possible junction points for Marshal Rommel's Libyan forces and the Axis Army of Tunisia, raiding Gabes, the village of Kébili west of that port, and Kairouan, an African Air force spokesman announced today.

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Jan. 11 (AP)—Allied planes shot down or crippled in four days of blazing action as they pursued the remnants of a battered Japanese convoy fleeing from New Guinea yesterday and scored bomb hits on two more ships, General MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today to hold rivers and harbors and flood control expenditures to bare essentials during the 1944 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Philadelphie, Jan. 11 (AP)—Chief Justice George W. Maxey announced today that state Supreme court justices will attend the inauguration of Governor-elect Martin January 19 and the court will not sit that day. Chief Justice Maxey will administer the oath to Martin.

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Extension over the whole country of the ban on pleasure driving of automobiles now confined to the east, was proposed today by Rep. Treadway (R-Massachusetts). Treadway said that "if equality of sacrifice is to be rple, the ban on pleasure driving should be extended to the country as a whole."

$100 Blaze At Oylor Tire Plant

Gettysburg firemen used extinguishers and water from booster tanks to put out a blaze in the basement of the Oylor Tire company station on Carlisle street this morning about 10:20 o'clock. H. M. Oylor, the owner, estimated damage at about $100.

The fire apparently started near the heating plant in the basement and destroyed a number of fan belts on racks close by. The burning rubber filled the station office with heavy smoke.

Local Girl Is Engaged To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Zinn, Hanover street, announced on Saturday the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen E. Zinn, to Robert W. Hicks, son of Mrs. Ada Hicks, 1907 Swatara street, Harrisburg. The date for the wedding has not been announced.

Miss Zinn is a graduate of the Gettysburg high school in the class of 1940. She has been employed at the Middletown Air Depot in the office of superintendent of production control.

Mr. Hicks, who is a graduate of the John Harris high school, has been employed at the Middletown depot for the last two years.

China, Britain And U.S. Sign Treaties

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—China, Britain and the United States signed treaties today abolishing the system of extraterritorial rights in China.

A similar treaty was scheduled for signing simultaneously in London between Great Britain and China.

In effect the treaties abolishing extraterritorial rights place China on a footing of equality with the other United Nations. China is assured that her sovereignty in post-war years will not be impaired by a system granting special rights and privileges in China to foreigners.

The intention of Britain and the United States to end the system of extraterritorial rights by treaty was announced by the two governments last October, and some weeks later draft treaties were submitted to the Chinese government.

ORDERED TO DUTY

Charles H. Huber, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber, Carlisle street, who enlisted several months ago in the American Field Service, has been ordered to duty. He expects to be sent overseas as an ambulance driver.

The Rev. The deceased was a son of Mrs. Catherine Moser, Detour, and the late Wallace Moser. He went to Baltimore a number of years ago, serving as overseer at the Samuel Ready school for girls and later as engineer at the Pullman Wilson Granite company plant. In 1935 he was licensed by the United Brethren conference as supply pastor. He was active in the work of the Taneytown U. B. church, formerly serving as superintendent of the Sunday school and more recently as teacher of the women's Bible class.

He was also active in community affairs, serving as air warden and member of the Minute Men. He was engaged in general carpenter work.

He was twice married. His first wife, the former Anna H. Six, died some years ago. His second wife, the former Esther Dudley Porter, survives. He also leave two stepdaughters, Doris B. Burial took place in Mountain View cemetery, Emmitsburg.

Charles H. Becker, Sr., Hanover R. 2, was discovered dead in bed Sunday morning about 9 o'clock at his home by his wife, Mrs. Anna Becker, after she had gone to his room to call him. Death was caused by coronary occlusion, according to Coroner L. U. Zech, who said death occurred about 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning, not long after Mr. Becker had retired for the night.

He had been engaged in his usual pursuits during Saturday and had at no time complained of feeling ill. Mr. Becker was a son of the late Solomon and Angeline Luckenbaugh Becker and was born March 7, 1876.

MEN who go down with their ships at sea—an Admiral or the helmsman of a tanker—pay the last full measure of devotion to their country. We who are buying War Bonds to replace those ships—are we merely lending our spare dollars—or are we fighting with them? We are fighting if

Just Folks

NEW DUTY

Often the trifles of life can drive out

Matters of moment and worry and doubt.

Men are so fashioned, and women as well.

What can delight them nobody can tell.

Here's a new duty which swiftly we've sped to:

Ellen Elizabeth wants to be read to!

Let's man shouldn't tumble asleep in his chair

Children were sent here to rumple his hair.

Tug at his waistcoat and climb on his knee.

Keep him in action though weary is he.

That's a belief I am certainly led to:

Ellen Elizabeth wants to be read to!

Mr. McGregor and Peter the rabbit:

She is the latest to take up the habit.

"Read me," she orders and climbs in my lap.

"Read me!" and opens the book with a slap.

"Read me!" Oh, where has her grandmother fled to?

Ellen Elizabeth wants to be read to!

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THIS LITTLE PAPER PULPIT

I have just finished reading "Random Harvest" by James Hilton—an entertaining and purposeful brief book. Near the end I came across this statement given by a rather unconventional preacher-missionary to the main character of the book. He said: "But preaching doesn't need a pulpit. All it needs is what you have—a faith."

Well, that about fits this writer. I dislike the idea of ever "preaching." I got a lot of that in my youth. Rather do I like the idea of just a brief talk with those who care to read these simply written paragraphs.

I am never satisfied with them. No one with a purpose ever is satisfied with anything that he does. But I have a faith—faith in myself, faith in a better world, faith in people, and faith in an Overseeing God. This spot is merely a Little Paper Pulpit—accorded to me generously by the publisher of this newspaper. I take pride in it and in the opportunity—or hope—that something said from day to day may be of some comfort, encouragement, or hope, to someone.

For over 25 years now these talks have appeared in American and Canadian newspapers, in spots like this one. The task, from a busy and varied life, I look upon as the happiest and most important of all that I have ever done. Late into the night most of them have been written, though thousands of them have been self-typed on steamships, railroad, in hotels, offices, and on vacation haunts.

Thousands of letters have come from unseen friends all over America and from many foreign lands. I like these contracts—otherwise I fear this Little Paper Pulpit would soon become a thing of the past. One's highest reward in this life is appreciation, and the knowledge that you've helped another up!

There is another line I would like to quote from Hilton's book, where he says: "Life's more important than a living. So many people who make a living are making death, not life." It has been that we keep are the things that we give away.

And so, to you, who have enabled me to talk from this Little Paper Pulpit for so long, through your encouraging words, and your

A hint: We wonder whether those of our subscribers who have not given us a cent for a number of years, are aware that it costs us a good deal to furnish a paper for their accommodation; and if it does thus cost, how, would ask them, are we to "raise the funds" to meet expenses, if they withhold payment of our dues from us for years? We hope they will take the matter into consideration and do what justice and propriety require.

State To Mobilize

SIREN BLASTS WILL SUMMON ALL AGENCIES

Harrisburg, Jan. 11 (AP)—Pennsylvania today pushed plans for extensive mobilization of all military and civilian defense units within its borders to meet a simulated enemy attack under actual war conditions.

An outline of the state-wide maneuver was disclosed by Governor James, who explained it would be held in conjunction with a surprise January air raid drill "to effectively test" Pennsylvania's protective forces.

He added that the "primary purpose is to put Pennsylvania's war plans into effect for an actual try-out" and:

"Will be of inestimable value to eliminate lags, uncover possible breakdowns in communications, bring about a more effective liaison between all elements, uncover structural weaknesses, if any, and to test morale and mutual understanding."

New War Staff

A war strategy staff has been named with Col. William Diener, commanding officer of the Army's central Pennsylvania internal security district, as maneuver director. Others on the staff are: Dr. A. C. Marks, state defense council director; Col. Lynn G. Adams, state police commissioner; Brig.-Gen. Robert M. Vall, reserve defense corps head; G. Albert Stewart, head of the Governor's disaster committee; Major William L. Anderson, wing commander of the civil air patrol, and Capt. Le Roy V. Greene, liaison officer of the Governor's office.

The staff warned the only information it now has of the supposed attack is reports that the enemy plans to bomb the Atlantic coast but as the make-believe situation unfolds daily communiques will be released, each with latest details on "enemy" activities.

Blasts of sirens in every part of the state will call into action the trained civilian defense corps, state police, the reserve defense corps and its auxiliary, the civil air patrol, the state evacuation authority, the disaster committee, all volunteer police units and forces of the U. S. arms now in the commonwealth.

Asks for Reports

The Governor explained that "Pennsylvania is perhaps the first state to attempt this advanced and ultimate form of training—short of hand-to-hand contact with the enemy."

Massachusetts and Vermont have held drills combining the state guard and Army and Navy has called the state guard into action under a similar test, while New Jersey has held a practice for all units of its defense organization, a staff member explained, adding, however, that "none have mobilized all forces as planned by Pennsylvania."

The maneuver will include "full use of Federal troops" under Maj.-Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding officer of the Third Service command, the Governor added.

The Governor has directed all elements, through chain of command, to have their final reports in his office within 36 hours after the conclusion of the maneuver.

County Youth At Sub-Chaser School

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11.—William Calasin Nary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Quay Beaver, Nary, Fairfield, is in training in the sound school at the U. S. Naval Submarine Chaser Training Center here.

Now a soundman third class, Nary enlisted for service with the fleet last August, and reported to this center, the only activity of its kind in the country, in October.

Prior to his enlistment in the Navy, Nary graduated from the Fairfield high school, where he played baseball for four years. He played on the baseball team for two years, as a catcher. Soccer and soft-ball were two more sports he took active part in.

When his course of training is completed at this anti-submarine warfare center, he probably will be assigned to a unit charged with keeping clear the vital shipping areas of enemy submarines.

SOCIAL REVOLUTION

Liberty, Mo. (AP)—Even boy-meets-girl isn't like it used to be.

"For 16 years, I have had to warn the boys to get the girls back to the campus on time, after their dates," explains Mrs. H. I. Hester, wife of the president of William Jewell college.

"Now, with naval aviation cadets here, I have to warn the girls that the boys must be back in their quarters by 9:30."

OH, ABSOLUTELY

San Pedro, Calif. (AP)—Baker Pietro Di Carlo shrugs his shoulders.

Should he obey Secretary Wickard's order to deliver only uncut bread to his customers, starting next week?

Or should he comply with his Army contract to deliver sliced bread daily to Fort MacArthur?

OR RECKLESS SKATING?

Spokane, Wash. (AP)—Traffic officer stopped a speeding automobile.

They looked at the 17-year old youth at the wheel, then charged him with reckless driving. He was wearing ice skates.

VERY DEMOCRATIC

San Leandro, Calif. (AP)—Bus Driver A. L. Anderson listened to the two women who said he failed to let them off at their proper stop.

The other passengers chimed in, too. Finally Anderson got out, and said they could drive it themselves.

The passengers chose Ruby Henderson, student driver, who took the wheel.

Anderson, puzzled, reported the bus stolen when he discovered it really had gone on without him. Sheriff's deputies heard all about it and told everybody to go home and forget it.

UNITED STATES NEARING PEAK OF PRODUCTION

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—The United States is rapidly approaching the limit of its capacity to produce the guns, ships and planes essential to victory, President Roosevelt disclosed today in submitting to Congress a budget for the 12 months beginning next July 1.

That this ultimate production level will be sufficient to bear out official hopes for victory in 1944 has already been made clear by the Chief Executive, yet, he said, it will fall somewhat short of giving the Army and Navy all the weapons their leaders consider necessary to fulfill pressing strategic requirements.

Revise Estimates

In short, Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference to which he explained provisions of his new budget, the Army and Navy high commands initially submitted requests for weapons on the basis of strategic needs alone and those had to be modified and dovetailed into the overall production prospects which are limited by factors of manpower, plant capacity, raw materials and the like.

The President declined to detail, for military reasons, the various Army and Navy requests which had to be shaved down. An illustration, however, may be found in the recent joint statement by the armed services and War Production Board that ordnance manufacture would be curtailed in order to produce more ships and planes.

The budget estimates munitions expenditures at $66,000,000,000; military and civilian pay, subsistence, and travel expenses at $21,000,000,000; industrial construction at $2,000,000,000; other war construction at $5,000,000,000; and other unidentified items, including agricultural lend-lease at $6,000,000,000. Total $100,000,000,000.

For the present fiscal year which ends next June 30, munitions expenditures were put at $43,000,000,000; pay and the like at $15,000,000,000; industrial construction at $6,000,000,000 other war construction at $8,000,000,000 and the other items, including agricultural lend-lease, at $5,000,000,000. Total $77,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt said that some persons may believe his $100,000,000,000 program is "fantastic."

"My reply," he declared in his budget message, "is that this program is entirely feasible. If the nation's manpower and resources are fully harnessed, I am confident that the objective of this program can be reached, but it requires a complete recognition of the necessities of total war by all—management, labor, farmers, consumers and public servants—regardless of party. Production short of these military requirements would be a betrayal of our fighting men."

GRAND JURORS RESUME NAVAL DEPOT PROBE

Harrisburg, Jan. 11 (AP)—Federal grand jurors, investigating reports of irregularities in the construction of the $40,000,000 Naval supply depot at nearby Mechanicsburg, returned to Harrisburg today to resume the inquiry (2 p. m.) after a holiday recess.

The jury, prepared to call a score of witnesses, will recess again on Wednesday but will be called back later, declared Tom C. Clark, special assistant to U. S. Attorney Bidle and assigned to direct the investigation.

Clark said Judge Albert L. Watson has signed an order extending the term of the jury beyond January 18, when it would otherwise expire. He also disclosed that Judge Watson has ordered impounding of all documents "produced or to be produced" before the jury.

Clear Officials

The jury last month before recessing submitted a presentment to Judge Watson which termed "without foundation" the charges made by U. S. Commissioner Sidney E. Friedman, of Harrisburg, that Federal agents were "hamstrung" in their investigation of reports of fraud and bribery at the depot.

No indictments were returned at that time by the jury which said in its presentment that "the grand jury already has taken action in a number of matters . . ." and added that investigation would continue.

Judge Watson will be present "to receive such indictments as the grand jury may wish to return on Wednesday," declared Clark.

Among the witnesses listed for today are: Lieutenant Commander H. V. Martin, in charge of the depot for the Navy; Lieutenant William T. Fleming, of Naval Intelligence; Walter Overstreet and John Garbutt, FBI agents; Paul Louis Schlitz, purchasing agent for a contractor at the depot; Howard Buckalew, John Joseph Spencer, Maude Richardson Spencer, employees at the depot; Fred Weaver, Claude R. Schell, Carl D. Swartz, John Ferreri, Lawrence Hulbe, and Bernard Borden, all unidentified by Clark, and representatives of Local 542, International Union of Operating Engineers.

New Commissioner

Dauphin county over the weekend gained a second U. S. commissioner.

Judge Johnson announced the appointment of William S. Middleton, of Harrisburg, member of the Dauphin county bar for 25 years, as commissioner despite the fact that Friedman has another year to serve. He said the new appointment does not mean immediate removal of Friedman.

It was the second time the county had two U. S. Commissioners, a similar situation having developed in 1936.

MINERS REJECT PLEA TO HALT 13-DAY STRIKE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—Possibility of government intervention in the 13-day-old strike of some 20,000 anthracite coal miners was hinted today as workers split on the issue of returning to their jobs.

Spurning appeals from the government and their own union leaders, hard coal miners in the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton area continued the walkout which started Dec. 30 in protest to a dues increase of 50 cents a month, voted at the October convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

Union officials answered a back-to-work appeal made by Lieut. Col. Charles W. Kerwood of the War department Saturday by urging the men to return to work today and continue on the job for one week pending further negotiations. Three local unions immediately vetoed the suggestion and 13 others took similar action yesterday.

Some Resume Work

The three locals involved, decided to resume work today. They are the Dorrance colliery of the Lehigh Coal Co., employing about 1,000; the Exeter mine of the Payne Coal Co., employing about 700, and the Huber colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Co., employing about 1,000.

The possibility of government action was expressed by Thomas Lambert, of the U. S. conciliation board, who said:

"I don't think the government will stand idly by if this unauthorized strike continues."

In Washington, however, spokesmen for the War Labor Board, the War department and Solid Fuels Coordinator Harold L. Ickes said they knew of no move to take over the mines.

$100 Billions

after taxes—which means, he said, a practical limit of $67,200—on all incomes. He said he could not understand why, in time of war, anyone should have more than that much income.

To Affect Others

Previously, the President never went further in his public utterances than to instruct the Treasury, as part of a general wage and salary regulation, to limit salaries to $25,000 after tax payments. This rule affected only a few thousand corporation executives, and did not touch, as Mr. Roosevelt's new suggestion would, the more thousands of millionaires who live off stock dividends, trust funds, royalties, bond interest and other types of income.

Compulsory Savings

He indicated the belief that the present voluntary system of buying war bonds may have to be supplemented by some compulsory savings scheme, favored putting tabs, as far as possible, on a pay-as-you-go basis, opposed a general sales tax in its usual form, and reiterated requests for mandatory joint tax returns for husbands and wives, and abolition of tax-exempt securities.

The public debt, now $112,000,000, will rise the President said, to about $210,000,000 by June 30, 1944, requiring a revision of the present $125,000,000 statutory limit.

"Such a debt," he commented, "can and will be repaid. The nation is soundly solvent."

It also means, he added, that "taxes probably will never revert to their pre-war level."

More so than in last week's "State of the Union" message to Congress, the President appealed for political unity in today's message.

"I have read," he said, "of this bloc, and the other bloc which existed in past congresses. May this new Congress confine itself to one bloc—a national bloc."

More Efforts Needed

Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that his goal in preparing his budget was to buy all the output of the nation's factories and farms, leaving enough for essential civilian needs. He noted that "further efforts are necessary" to utilize even the small plants and businesses of the nation in the war effort.

Left for the ordinary civilian, the President figured, will be "an average of about $500 worth of goods and services during the year—an average of almost 25 per cent in civilian consumption below the record level of the calendar year 1941."

"During the calendar year 1943," the President continued, "approximately 6,000,000 people will be needed above present requirements for the armed services and war production. The number can be obtained by transferring from less essential work, and by drawing into the working force people who have not recently sought employment. Vigorous action is required to mobilize and train our reserve of women and young people, to accelerate the transfer of workers to essential industries, and to reduce harmful turnover and migration of workers in essential industries."

9,700,000 In Service

The armed services alone will need 9,700,000 by the end of this year, and his budget reflected arms to equip all of them.

In his list of things that civilians will or will not have, however, the President also made the statement that money is what they will have most in the next year. He calculated the national income at $135,000,000 this fiscal year, and $145,000,000,000 next year—compared with about $70,000,000,000 before Pearl Harbor and $40,000,000,000 at the depths of the depression.

Explaining that the extra taxes and savings he proposed were also designed to siphon off some of this spare purchasing power, he noted, "under war conditions a rise in profits, wages, and farm incomes unfortunately does not increase the supply of goods for civilians; it merely invites the bidding up of prices of scarce commodities."

He said families in the lower third bracket of income will have this year average earnings of $1,335, instead of $780, which was the 1935-36 average.

Miscellaneous Items

Outside of his "war expenditures," the President said the budget called for $9,000,000,000 of other costs, usually called "non-war," but he said these included $3,000,000,000 interest on the public debt, and $579,360,000 for the veterans administration.

He noted that the Work Projects Administration has been ordered abolished, public works curtailed and asserted that other normal governmental activities have been cut practically to the bedrock of activities required by existing laws. He said further cuts could not be made unless Congress repealed laws which called for these activities.

The actual total of Treasury expenditures in the next year, Mr. Roosevelt added, will be $140,128,924,923, but to this should be added $4,774,123,000 of expenditures to be made outside the Treasury by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Commodity Credit Corporation, and other corporations.

Dr. Luis Quintanilla, Arendtsville, who was recently appointed minister to Russia by Mexico, will be interviewed during the Metropolitan Opera broadcast over WJZ next Saturday afternoon.

THOUSANDS PAY FINAL HOMAGE TO ACE AIRMAN

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—Trampled footprints in the snow at Grandview cemetery today were individual tributes of almost 10,000 persons who gathered to pay final homage to Lieut.-Col. Boyd D. (Buzz) Wagner, Pennsylvania's ace flier of the Pacific.

Two hundred Legionnaires conducted full military rites yesterday for the youthful air officer who outfought and downed uncounted Jap planes in the Philippines and New Guinea at the outset of World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Wagner, the colonel's parents, attended simple private rites at their home before the funeral procession began its five-mile journey to the cemetery. In addition to the huge crowd in the cemetery, thousands of persons lined the route to catch a final glimpse of the bier of their hometown hero.

Give Flag To Mother

Weather conditions made it impossible for a squadron of Army pursuit planes—the kind "Buzz" knew and loved—to fly over the grave and dip their wings in final salute.

Brig. Gen. Gordon P. Seville, an honorary pallbearer, presented an American flag, which had draped the hero's casket, to Mrs. Wagner at the conclusion of the services.

There was no eulogy of the dead flier; his wish that no "fuss" be made over him was respected in death as it had been in life.

Gathering momentum was a movement for a permanent memorial—to be known as "The Flying Colonel"—started Friday by pupils of the Hudson street school who contributed $11.11 toward a fund without the knowledge of their teachers.

They were among many youths who filed past the casket of Colonel Wagner while his body lay in state Saturday. To them the ace was the greatest hero of the war.

The flier was killed when his plane crashed in Florida six weeks ago.

Fred Perkins Gets Suspended Sentence

Philadelphia, Jan. 11 (AP)—Fred Perkins, 74-year-old York (Pa.) battery manufacturer who has been feuding with the government over new deal measures since NRA days, was given a six months suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years in federal court today after he said he had decided to "take my medicine" and pay $51.16 in Social Security taxes.

The self-styled little business man, jailed 18 days in 1934 for defying the NRA, told U.S. District Judge William H. Kirkpatrick he decided to pay taxes on a $5,116 payroll for the year ended June 30, 1942, because the Social Security law had been declared constitutional.

"But," he declared, "I think it will ruin America."

Engagement

Friends and relatives in Adams county have received word of the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Elizabeth Winton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Winton of Mt. Holly, N. J., to Robert A. Winstanley, Johnstown, Pa.

Miss Winton is a graduate of Mt. Holly high school and St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, N. J., and is a member of the senior class at Maryville Teachers' college, Maryville, Tennessee. Mr. Winstanley is a graduate of Johnstown high school, Valley Forge Military academy and is a junior in the Temple university school of medicine.

Mrs. David Winton is the former Miss Sarah Quigle of Biglerville.

Mary wished instantly that her anger hadn't betrayed her into showing her hand that way. Especially when her mother was in her present mood.

"Oh—so that's the way the wind blows,"—eyebrows arched.

"Don't be silly. I just told you it's Carmencita— he's calling for," and turning, Mary ran out the door before she said more than she would be sorry for.

Too Beautiful

Poor mother, she thought as she stepped hard on the accelerator, pushed her car along the Foot-hill Boulevard as fast as she dared. She should have had a different kind of daughter. One who could share her passion for lovely expensive clothes and 'important' parties and 'important' people. Someone who'd be really thrilled to be a social leader.

Mother had always loved it so, had climbed to her present place in exclusive Santa Phillipa by long, patient planning. And then—Mary grimaced ruefully—she had to spoil it all being 'difficult'.

Thank heaven Daddy seemed to understand. Without his unspoken support, Mary never would have had the courage to stick it out.

Carmencita's villa, a lovely imitation of some Mediterranean show-place, nestled against the foothills deep in shrubbery. Mary caught sight of its gleaming white walls, its tiled roof only when she turned into the private road.

Mary had been here only once before. When Porter had brought her out to meet his aunt, the real

The number is nye-un nye-un threese six," the operator said mechanically. "The number is temporarily out of order."

"Thank you," Puzzled, Mary hung up the receiver. She had already called Mrs. Lloyd, and the entertainment committee chairman, and the hotel. But no one knew where Carmencita was. She must be at her villa, Mary reasoned. It just meant driving right out there to get her.

"Not leaving now, are you Mary?" her mother called as she went through the hall. "Linda just announced dinner."

"Sorry, Mother. I have to do an errand for Dad," and hoped that explanation would suffice.

But her mother persisted. "What errand?"

Mary held her voice steady. "Dan Sherman is terribly ill. He's calling for Carmencita in his delirium. Dad thinks it important that we find her."

"Really. Isn't there anyone else in Santa Phillipa who could run the Lieutenant's errands?"

"Hundreds of people," Mary said, lips tight. "I'm glad that I have the chance to be the one."

Her mother tried to release the tension with a light little ripple of laughter. "Don't tell me you too have been impressed by a little gold braid and some brass buttons?"

"It isn't the braid and buttons, Mother. It's the man himself who is worth saving."

Mary found herself picturing the lovely Senorita in her trailing white gowns, her long black capes, her startling contrasts here in this room. Had Dan ever been here, she wondered?

Carmencita would look more beautiful than ever seated there in that high-backed Renaissance chair, framed by its lovely old carving. Or there in the curve of the huge grand piano. Or there against the deep velvet draperies at the great studio window.

She dropped down onto the tapestry-covered piano bench, turned the pages of sheet music on the rack before her idly. Arias, the very popular ballads, love songs with which Carmencita had won all of Santa Phillipa. Some of them hadn't even been published, she noticed. Written on sheets of staff paper in spidery-stemmed notes.

Foreign-looking words of the verse. And she looked more closely—a series of numbers under each word. Strange, she mused, a little frown drawn between her brows. Some singing teacher's notes, probably.

Still—Mary recalled her own painful ordeal with singing lessons—no two of the difficult high notes was numbered the same. Funny.

She was still discovering more of the numbered pages when she heard a car come into the road below. She ran to the window in time to see Carmencita fling out of the car, run up the steps. An instant later she heard her burst into the hallway below, heard her shout angrily.

"Lena! Lena! Come here this in-owner. Even then, Mary had been chilled by the loneliness of the place.

Beautiful, truly artistic, a perfect bit of old-world architecture, still the house lacked something.

Porter, later, had suggested they rent it from his aunt for their 'honeymoon cottage'.

Mary could still remember the shudder that had twisted through her at the thought of living there in that too-perfect, too-pretty villa.

None of its perfection had been marred, Mary noticed as she followed the heavy-footed house-keeper into the drawing room.

"The Senorita is not at home," the florid-faced woman insisted.

Mary smiled sweetly. "But I don't mind waiting. And it's terribly important. A matter of life and death."

The woman shrugged. "I don't know when she will come. It would be better if you left a message."

"I prefer to wait."

Again the woman shrugged. Still obviously disapproving, she stamped off, slammed a door somewhere.

Not really conscious of the fact that she was actually searching for evidence, Mary moved thoughtfully around the room. Rare art treasures, tooled leatherbound first editions, fine tapestry, rich brocade—the room was the art museum Mrs. Dwight Porter had intended.

Porter himself had thought she'd overdone it a little. Still, the effect was very grand—and exactly what must please Carmencita de la Vega.

Carmencita Slips

Claims He Is 132 Years Of Age Today

Chicago, Jan. 11 (AP)—Sayed Mehrem celebrated his birthday today—he said it was his 132nd and looked forward to living a lot longer.

His head fringed with white hair and his skin smooth and yellow like old papyrus, Sayed contended he was born on January 11, 1811, in Cairo, Egypt, although he said he couldn't prove it.

All his life he has dodged the subject of birth certificates.

"Life is eternal," the Egyptian said. "It looks like I am going to live a lot longer. If I have any secret it is my philosophy of self harmony. I am my own master now. I have my handwriting, my books, and my five languages to carry me through."

Six Lose Lives Over Week-End

By The (AP)

A traffic accident, two coasting mishaps and fire took a toll of six lives in Pennsylvania over the week-end.

Three men were killed Saturday when their car crashed into a house in Allentown. The dead: Charles Harrieh, 28; Calvin Seek, 25, and Anthony Phillips, 20.

Eric Gardener, 7, was killed in Scranton when his sled struck a curb. His mother witnessed the fatality. At the other end of the state, Charles Tyson, 10, died in a coasting accident when his sled collided with a truck.

Patton Roberts, 40, was burned to death when a shack was destroyed in south Philadelphia.

Someone came into the hall then. There was immediate silence. Then, the sound of whispers. The house-keeper telling her mistress of Mary's presence here, of course. Checking that furious outburst in—Mary suddenly realized why it had sounded so strange.

Carmencita de la Vega, who spoke nothing but Spanish, had cursed her maid roundly in English! And very American English at that!

Closing Rally Gives Bullets Win Over Lebanon Valley

TRIUMPH 46-36 AFTER TRAILING IN FIRST HALF

After trailing throughout the entire first half, the Gettysburg college basketball team came back in the last half to win its second victory of the season here Saturday night before a large crowd, Lebanon Valley bowing 46-36.

The Dutchmen put up a scrappy game and held the upper hand until midway in the third quarter when the Bullets hit their stride and took over the lead, never to be headed.

Vince Parnell again captured the scoring honors with 15 points and it was his three rapid field goals in the third period that started the Bullets on their winning rally.

Valleyies Start Fast
Lebanon Valley got off to a flying start on two goals by Shupper. Tony Yovicin tallied first for Gettysburg and the Marquette netted a pair for the visitors. After a time out Parnell sank a shot and Welliver tabbed a long throw. Devlin looped a pair of fouls and Dracha sank a free toss. Miller and Parnell matched long shots as the period ended with the Dutchmen out in front 12-9.

Gettysburg went into a temporary lead after about half of the second quarter elapsed. Parnell made good on a foul. Freedman netted a short toss and when fouled on the play, missed the free throw. However, Welliver took the ball off the board on the throw and dropped it through to send Gettysburg ahead 14-12.

Freedman followed with a foul throw but the visitors regained the lead on a goal and pair of free tosses by Harriger. The half ended with Lebanon Valley out in front 21-17.

Bullets Spurt
Shortly after the third quarter started Miller landed a short shot and Gemberung sank a foul. The Bullets then went on a scoring spree which brought 17 points before Lebanon Valley could score again. Parnell landed three straight goals and Freedman connected for a goal and three successive fouls. Yovicin was good from a long toss and Parnell on a shorter try. Freedman tallied on a close throw and then Gemberung and Miller looped double-deckers for the Dutchmen to bring the score to 34-28 as the third round ended.

Coach Bream's outfit safely protected its margin in the final period against the desperately fighting Valleyies who kept battling until the final whistle.

Navy Next Foe
Don Freedman put up a nice game for the Bream-men and contributed 13 tallies. Parnell, Welliver, Dracha and Yovicin each turned in nice plays from time to time.

On Wednesday the Bullets will go after their third straight victory when they meet Navy at Annapolis.

OVERCOME IN BUS
Beaver Falls, Jan. 11 (AP)—Two small children were treated at Providence hospital yesterday after they were overcome by gas fumes in a bus enroute from East Palestine, Ohio. Mary Louise McConaughy, 7, and her sister, Elsie Marie, 15 months, were traveling with their mother, Mrs. Harry McConaughy, of Darlington, when taken ill.

White Sox, Cubs Train In Indiana

Chicago, Jan. 11 (AP)—This may be a blow to the California Chamber of Commerce, but the Chicago White Sox and Cubs have found the grass just as green in their own backyard—considering that their own backyard is a little matter of 278 miles away in French Lick, Indiana, where the boys will train in the spring.

So excited are the clubs that there was little argument as to which team suggested the old mineral spa in the first place. The Cubs won and by doing so claimed squatters' rights on a hunk of golf course only a shout from the hotel. Groundsman Dorr marked off a diamond and announced to the Cubs' complete satisfaction that it was only 100 yards from the lobby.

The Sox—losing that important argument—had to take a vacant spot measuring 1,000 yards away by foot.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—When this business of trying to train baseball clubs in the frigid north first came up, we asked Hugh Fullerton, Sr., about it, since Pop's baseball experience goes back to when southern trips were something of a novelty. "I remember listening to Anson, Ryan, Burns and Mike Kelly tell about training in the snow banks on the Lake Front park at Chicago," Pop writes, "and how Mike shoveled snow and practiced hook slides into the snow at second. . . . We trained at some funny places: Waycross, Georgia (where we were chased out of town after one week and went to Savannah), Hot Springs, Kansas City, New Orleans, Selma, Alabama, Galveston, Shreveport. . . . One spring Chicago went to West Baden, Indiana, for ten days then at the University of Illinois and was in fine shape when it started barnstorming. . . . The best-conditioned club I ever saw trained at Hudson, New Mexico, and hardly saw a baseball until a week before the season started, merely rode horses, climbed mountains and ran around the desert. They were eager to play ball when the season started. . . . maybe this will cure a lot of bunk."

A COOL CUSTOMER
One guy who (like Joe DiMaggio) didn't have to worry about spring training. Pop reports, was a big pitcher named Rog Denzer, who lived in Minnesota when the Cubs bought him. . . . Rog didn't report for training and didn't answer letters so a scout was sent after him, arriving on a sub-zero day. . . . After nearly freezing on the way to Denzer's farm because the liverman thought it was too cold to take a horse out, the scout was directed to the barn. . . . There he found Rog, in his undershirt, pitching at a sack of bran and cutting loose with all his speed. . . . "In July of that year," Pop adds, "Rog complained that he was a hot weather pitcher and couldn't work well on chilly days."

SPRING TRAINING
Another idea from the same source is that most of the feuds within baseball clubs start from playing boredom. . . . "Most of the players are sick of ball before the season starts, sick of exhibitions and anxious to start real play. When they have too much time on their hands, they form factions that break up clubs. . . . The fights that occur during the playing season are flareups of anger; those of spring training are active hates."

MONDAY MATINEE
The Bawled Victory Legion, which has raised $61,368 for USO and over $120,000 for the Red Cross, starts its third war charity collection a week from today. This led Bill Kuster of Kansas City to express this sentiment: "We've got to give. The beautiful thing about it all is that we don't have to give until it hurts because it doesn't hurt a bowler to give." . . . But when that No. 7 pin refused to fall, ouch! . . . San Francisco will stage its first 15-round fight in 30 years tonight when Eddie Booker defends his state middleweight title against Jack Chase. . . . And that's the town where 20 to 40 rounders were commonplace in Jim Corbett's day. . . . Imagine how Ike Armstrong, Utah's grid coach, felt when he used precious gas to drive 22 miles to speak in a neighboring town only to find he was 24 hours early. . . . at least, nobody called it pleasure driving.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
Bill Reddy, Syracuse, New York, Post-Standard: "Bill Terry had a chance to invest some money in the Phillips, but bought some cows instead. . . . indicating that Terry not only knows which side his bread is buttered on, but also knows where to get the butter."

WEST VIRGINIA CAGE STAR NOW STUDENT-COACH

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—Rudy Baric of West Virginia university, is offered as the prize example of how topsy-turvy the war has made the college sports world in a single year.

A year ago Baric and his Cinderella teammates pioneered a journey to New York where they were seeded last in the National Invitational Basketball tournament.

They remain long enough to win the title, Baric, known to every spectator and player as "The Goon," took added honors as the tourney's most valuable player.

This week the Mountaineers return with Baric, still a student at West Virginia, but not as a player but as the team's coach—and as Mr. Baric to the public and the athletes. He took over when the previous mentor, Dick Raese, joined the Navy.

Have One Veteran
Although the Mountaineer squad has only one of the eight regulars of last season, the 1943 Mountaineers have won four of their first five games and Wednesday encounter the unbeaten New York university outfit.

That game sparks this week's cage menu along with such other choice morsels as Arkansas vs. Rice, Southern California at Stanford, George Washington at Duke, Kentucky at Tennessee, Oklahoma Aggies at Creighton and Illinois at Wisconsin. All are conference games involving title favorites.

Tennessee, which already has won two Southeastern conference games and is at the top of the ladder, helps Kentucky open the Wildcat campaign at Knoxville Saturday. The Vols, paced by Dick Mehen, of Wheeling, W. Va., had the best percentage last season but Kentucky triumphed in the title tournament. They again are rated one-two.

A similar condition exists in the Southern loop with Duke, the defending champion, tonight entertaining George Washington.

Kansas Leads Big Six
Creighton and Oklahoma Aggies, co-champions of the Missouri Valley circuit last spring and both with outstanding records to date, collide at Omaha Saturday. Each boasts a conference victory from last week.

In the Big Six circuit, Kansas has taken its usual place at the head of the parade by smothering Missouri and then nicking Oklahoma on the Sooners' floor, 48 to 44. In the Missouri contest Forward Charlie Black poured in 33 points for the victors.

Illinois finds out how good it is tonight when it invades Wisconsin. The Badgers, their attack built around Johnny Kotz and Ray Patterson, outlasted Northwestern Saturday night, 67 to 65, while Illinois won as it pleased from Michigan, 47 to 34, in Big Ten openers.

Chicago has only a meager chance of winning its first league game in 33 starts Saturday when it entertains Indiana.

Dartmouth, the Eastern Intercollegiate league champion for the past five years and with George Munroe and Jim Olsen still in the lineup, goes after title No. 6 Saturday night with Red Rolfe's Yale five as the foe. Harvard is at Pennsylvania the same night in the only other league fray of the week.

Three Miners Are Trapped By Blast
Cambridge, Ohio, Jan. 11 (AP)—The state highway patrol reported today that three miners were trapped by an explosion in the Belle Valley Mining company's workings 15 miles south of here.

The patrol said it was not known whether the three "were dead or alive."

Three other miners, in the shaft when the blast occurred shortly before midnight, escaped, the patrol said. The "exact location where the others are trapped is unknown," patrolmen added, but it was thought they were about 3,000 feet from the mine's mouth.

A rescue squad from here was called to the scene and immediately began efforts to extricate the trio, identified by the patrol as James Mackey, Mike Zeleznik and Lester Berry, all of nearby Belle Valley.

The explosion occurred about 3,000 feet inside the workings, the patrol reported. The cause was not determined immediately.

PILOT IS INJURED
Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 11 (AP)—Capt. Robert Coffey, who was injured Saturday night in an emergency landing of his plane near Moundsville while on the way to attend funeral services for his fellow townsman, Lieut. Col. Boyd (Buzz) Wagner, at Johnstown, Pa., was treated for minor head and body injuries at Glendale hospital.

More than 775,000 American teachers are enrolled in the National Education Association and its affiliated groups.

Cage Coaches May Transport Teams To Games

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Use of passenger cars to take college or high school teams to athletic contests would violate the eastern ban on pleasure driving, the Office of Price Administration ruled today.

But it's all right if players ride in the cars of coaches or game officials. The coaches have been allotted gasoline to meet their occupational needs, an OPA spokesman said, and there is nothing to prevent them from taking players along.

The ruling draws a line between amateur and professional players. Members of pro teams would be eligible to drive to their contests because games are their business, but for amateurs the contests are classed as pleasure.

OPA GAS RULING HELPS HI CAGERS

Harrisburg, Jan. 11 (AP)—An OPA ruling giving high school coaches the privilege of carrying players to sports events in their own cars "will help solve our scholastic basketball schedule problem a little," today commented Harry DeWire, head of the Central Pennsylvania basketball league.

"We don't know what to do," said DeWire, principal of William Penn high school, "we have discussed it with principals of the high schools and we hoped to finish the basketball season by restricting the number of players on trips to the varsity men."

An OPA official in Washington said high school coaches would be allowed to carry team members to games but warned use of passenger cars would violate the order on pleasure driving.

D. Victor Emanuel, William Penn coach, said the ruling "would help us a lot," adding "almost all the high school coaches have automobiles."

The Central Pennsylvania Scholastic league comprises the William Penn and John Harris teams of Harrisburg, and those of Steelton, York, Reading, Lebanon and Lancaster.

BOB FELLER'S FATHER DIES
Van Meter, Iowa, Jan. 11 (AP)—One of the finest father-and-son partnerships in the world of sports was at an end today.

William Feller, 56, father, boyhood coach and counselor of baseball's Bob Feller died yesterday after a long illness. Death came in the $25,000 farm home which Bob built for his parents with his income from the pitching arm which was developed during years of patient guidance from his dad.

When Bob was eight his father began giving him regular practice in hurling, playing catch long hours with the youngster when the day's chores were done and sometimes at night in the barn. As his son's skill increased, Bill Feller laid out a baseball diamond on his farm and organized a team so his boy might gain further experience.

To Bill Feller came the joy of seeing that son join the Cleveland Indians at the age of 17 and go on to great accomplishments including a no-hit game against the Chicago White Sox in 1939.

Bob, who left the Indians to join the Navy, is believed to be at his gunnery station somewhere at sea. He last visited his parents and sister, Marguerite, early last December.

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 11 (AP)—The new associate professor, seated at his desk in Room 201, believes professional football is out for the war's duration.

He makes a strange looking faculty member, this six-foot, three-inch 230-pounder attired in running pants and a grey sweat shirt, but on the subject of pro football he's as erudite as they come.

The big guy is Mel Hein, 33, fresh from 12 years with the New York Giants, now head football coach and associate professor of physical education at Little Union college in upstate New York.

Professional football's wartime future "looks very doubtful," Mel asserts, mainly because the present caliber of play could not be maintained with so many stars in the armed service.

"They might go ahead with a regular schedule next fall," the pro league lineman, who played his last game only last month, explained in an interview, "but it will hurt the prestige of the game if they do. They'd be forced to play a lot of men who ordinarily wouldn't make the grade."

"I think they'll be smart to drop it altogether and pick up again after the war where they left off."

HERSHEY WAITS LEAGUE ACTION
Hershey, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—The Hershey Hockey club, hard hit by the ban on pleasure driving, will await action on the American Hockey league tomorrow in New York before making definite plans for the future.

Leading the Eastern division of the league, the Hershey team drew only 1,000 spectators at its Saturday night game in the big 7,200-capacity Hershey sports arena, the smallest crowd in its more than a decade of hockey playing.

Although crowds of more than 8,000 were not unusual in past years, Alexander Stoddard, public relations head, said the big arena has not been filled to capacity since the start of this season last October.

He added that Saturday night crowds averaged more than 6,000 but week-day games drew about 3,000.

BULLET SCRUBS SINK NAVY "5"

Paced by Cy Davis and Davey Plank who accounted for 23 points between them, the Gettysburg college jayvee basketball team defeated the Navy Plebes at Annapolis Saturday afternoon 37-23.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—There's no racing today, the first time in more than four years that all United States horse tracks have been idle on a week day.

New Orleans' fairgrounds, only oval now operating, is idle on Mondays and Florida tracks were closed last week after the OPA ban on pleasure driving.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—A 16-passenger mule drawn wagon is Forest Lake Golf club's answer to the ban on pleasure driving.

Anglers were instructed to restrict their catches to that needed for home use and turn the rest over to markets.

Fred Hurley of Pittsburgh set the opening day pace for barracuda with a 22-pounder, while Spero Plakas of Wilmington, North Carolina, entered the biggest kingfish with a 26-pounder.

HERSHEY WAITS LEAGUE ACTION
Hershey, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—The Hershey Hockey club, hard hit by the ban on pleasure driving, will await action on the American Hockey league tomorrow in New York before making definite plans for the future.

Leading the Eastern division of the league, the Hershey team drew only 1,000 spectators at its Saturday night game in the big 7,200-capacity Hershey sports arena, the smallest crowd in its more than a decade of hockey playing.

Although crowds of more than 8,000 were not unusual in past years, Alexander Stoddard, public relations head, said the big arena has not been filled to capacity since the start of this season last October.

He added that Saturday night crowds averaged more than 6,000 but week-day games drew about 3,000.

DEPUTY JOINS WAVES
Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 (AP)—Helen M. Weidley, former Pitt hockey and swimming star and believed to be the first woman ever appointed deputy sheriff in Pennsylvania, has been ordered to report Saturday for duty with the WAVES. She will get midshipman training in the Naval Reserve at Smith college, Northampton, Mass.

The Canadian potato crop in 1942 was the largest in recent years, amounting to 43,047,000 hundred-weight.

Former Athlete Killed In Crash

Smithton, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—Lieutenant Wayne S. Forsythe, former Carnegie Tech football player, was killed Saturday in a crash landing of his plane at Burlington, Iowa, according to word received from the War department by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Forsythe.

Forsythe was an Army Air Corps instructor at Ellington Field, Texas. Survivors include his bride of five months, Mrs. Elizabeth Birrell Forsythe of Houston, Texas.

WESTERN FIVES TO PLAY GAMES

Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 (AP)—Coaches, athletic directors and other officials in most western Pennsylvania colleges said they hope to finish their basketball schedules in spite of the ban on pleasure driving—so long as transportation in public conveyances is available.

A survey showed that Allegheny, Carnegie Tech, Clarion, Duquesne, Grove City, Indiana, Pitt, St. Vincent, W. & J. and Westminster all plan to complete their cage schedules, as most of them said, "if possible."

"Spectators will have to walk to games," commented President Paul Chandler of Clarion. Coach Grover Washbaugh said Westminster had added new games to replace earlier cancellations from Thiel and Slippery Rock.

"Since we are laying stress on physical fitness and athletics in the armed forces, it is difficult to see any curtailment in sports," said Athletic Director Robert Thorn of Grove City. Coach George Miller said Indiana will "play all games where a bus can be used."

High school basketball teams in the Johnstown area are solving the ban on pleasure driving by scheduling games in the afternoon, when more street cars and buses run.

SPORT SHORTS

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—There's no racing today, the first time in more than four years that all United States horse tracks have been idle on a week day.

New Orleans' fairgrounds, only oval now operating, is idle on Mondays and Florida tracks were closed last week after the OPA ban on pleasure driving.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—A 16-passenger mule drawn wagon is Forest Lake Golf club's answer to the ban on pleasure driving.

The wagon, fitted with board seats, meets members at a city bus line, nearly a mile from the club house.

The mule trolley is in service only on week-ends. Members are not charged for the ride.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—The 99-day Metropolitan Miami Fishing tournament, which began yesterday, is expected to provide plenty of fish for consumption in this area.

Anglers were instructed to restrict their catches to that needed for home use and turn the rest over to markets.

Fred Hurley of Pittsburgh set the opening day pace for barracuda with a 22-pounder, while Spero Plakas of Wilmington, North Carolina, entered the biggest kingfish with a 26-pounder.

LIONS TO PASS UNDER DORAIS

Detroit, Jan. 11 (AP)—Professional football is essentially a passing league, and that's why the many followers of Charles E. (Gus) Dorais are convinced that he will make good in the National league as new coach of the Detroit Lions.

Dorais was football's first great forward passer three decades ago while pitching aerials at Notre Dame to his roommate, end Knute Rockne, and his University of Detroit Elefens for 18 seasons have used the airplanes for nearly a 700 winning average.

"You know, we can't do any worse than the 1942 Lions," Dorais remarked dryly as he signed a contract over the week-end as head coach and part owner of the pro club. Last fall the Lions dropped all 11 games for a record unmatched in league history.

While owner Fred L. Mandel, Jr., disclosed no terms, Dorais is believed to have signed for five years at $12,000 annually, with a minimum of $7,500 a year if the league folds for the duration. In addition, he may continue to hold, at the pleasure of voters, his $5,000 city council seat.

John (Bull) Karcis, Dorais' predecessor, doesn't figure in immediate plans for next fall, but he might possibly wind up as backfield coach, a job he held last fall before succeeding Bill Edwards in October.

PRO-FOOTBALL OUT SAYS HEIN
By HERB SCULTZ
Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 11 (AP)—The new associate professor, seated at his desk in Room 201, believes professional football is out for the war's duration.

He makes a strange looking faculty member, this six-foot, three-inch 230-pounder attired in running pants and a grey sweat shirt, but on the subject of pro football he's as erudite as they come.

The big guy is Mel Hein, 33, fresh from 12 years with the New York Giants, now head football coach and associate professor of physical education at Little Union college in upstate New York.

Professional football's wartime future "looks very doubtful," Mel asserts, mainly because the present caliber of play could not be maintained with so many stars in the armed service.

"They might go ahead with a regular schedule next fall," the pro league lineman, who played his last game only last month, explained in an interview, "but it will hurt the prestige of the game if they do. They'd be forced to play a lot of men who ordinarily wouldn't make the grade."

"I think they'll be smart to drop it altogether and pick up again after the war where they left off."

Bout Called Off; Davis Has Cold

Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 (AP)—Illness of Al (Bummy) Davis of New York forced postponement from tomorrow to January 19 of a boxing card at the Gardens which included three ten-round bouts.

Fritz Zivic of Pittsburgh will meet Mayon Padlo of Philadelphia in the main event. Davis, who contracted a cold last week, is matched with Carmen Notch of Pittsburgh. Buddy Walker of Columbus, Ohio, and Curtis Sheppard of Pittsburgh will pair off in the third 10-rounder.

Pittsburgh Safe After "Invasion"

Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 (AP)—Pittsburgh was "safe" again today after a group of "enemy parachutists" was outflanked and annihilated in a mock battle on a ridge overlooking Highland park bridge.

Three companies of military police, aided by home guards, advanced on the "invaders" under screen of machine-gun fire yesterday. In two to three hours' time, the battle was over, with victory on the home side.

The maneuver was carried out to test Pittsburgh's defenses against infantry assault from the skies.
